Dr. Dabney, who is well known in Richmond, is quite a favorite here, but it is doubtful if he has any more friends than Colonel Miles, Dr. Moore and President Venable. CHURCHMEN GATHERING the Corner-Stone.

A Notable Gathering in Honor of His Excellency Diomede Falconio at the Residence of Dr. George Ben Johnston,

Arrangements are practically complete for the exercises to be held to-morrow atternoon in connection with the laying of the cornerstone of the new Catholic cathedral, being erected here. Preparations for the service are pretty well finished, and several of those who expect to puritelpate have already reached the city. Others will come in to-day, including His Excellency, the Apostolic Delegate, who will preside over the ceremonics.

Monsignor Falconio is expected to arrive on the 7:15 o'clock train this evening from Washington. He will be met at the station and will be escorted to the present Cathedral, where a formal reception will be tendered him. The altar boys and the clergy, robed in cassock and surplice, will meet at the episcopal residence and will march in a body into the church. Bishop Van de Vyere will speak on behalf of the clergy, welcoming the delegate, and Mr. John C. Hagan will speak for the laity. His Excellency will make response. Though brief, the service will be a most interesting one, marking the first appearance in Richmond of the distinguished vieltor. A general invitation to the Catholics of the city has been ex-which promises to be very large. The Knights of Columbus will have charge of the arrangements at the grounds. Members of the other societies and all other Catholic men of the city who can will meet at 8 o'clock in the afternoon at the Sacred Heart Church, and will march in a body to the site of the new Cathedral. The clorgy, in cassock and surplice, will altend them. bishop Janssens, who was in his early life men and laymen are expected. Bishop Kelley, of Savannah, so well known here, arrived yesterday and took dinner with Bishop Van de Vyver. A number of priests are also here, among them being Father Alph Janssens, a nephew of Archbishop Janssens, who was in his early life stationed in this city. The Very Rev. William O'Brien Pardow, S. J., the eminent Jesuit of New York, who will be the orator of the occasion of the laying of the corner-stone, also came in last night. He is the guest of Mr. John M. Higgins, No. 218 Governor Street.

Sovernor Street. To-day quite a number of others will arrive, including Mr. Joseph H. McGuire, of New York, architect for the Cathedral. Several bishops and other distinguished prelates, including Dr. O.Connell, rector of the Catholic University, are expected. Mr. Thomas F. Ryan, the donor of the Cathedral, will probably arrive to-morrow.

It is curious fact brought to light yea-terday that the much-treasured corner-stone will be entirely obscured from view when the church is completed. The stone ost as much as six or eight hundred thousand dollars, but this, it is believed, is wide of the mark. It was conceded yesterday by contractors and others, however, that the building complete will cost at least $550 000 and possibly $400,000. An inspection of the plans draws forth from every one an expression of admiration. The Cathedral will be in every sense of the world a magnificent structure, a distinct ornament to the city. The dome will rise 144 feet from the groundand the two bell-towers will be each 120 feet. Up to the first floor, the exterior will be of Virginia granite; above it will be of Indiana limestone. The roof will be guarded by iron girders, and the whole will be practically freproof. At the entrance will be six fluted columns of marble. The interior arrangements will be beautiful to a high degree. The floor will be of mosaic and terrazza. All of the columns, and there will be a number of them, will be of the finest marble. The interior arrangements will be five altars, not counting the one in the morning chapel, which will be to the right of the rear of the building.

death yesterday on Belvidere Street, near Monroe Park.

Owing to the absence of witnesses no inquest has been held, nor will be, and for the same reason positive knowledge of the details of the distressing accident is lacking. From the best information available, however, it would appear that the young fellow, who wished to make his way to Buitimore in the cab with the engineer, with whom he was acquainted, endeavored to swing aboard as the string or his hold, and fell to the ground to meet a horrible death under the wheels. The train passed on, the occupants unaware of its death dealing work, and the mittilated remains of the boy strewn along the track were discovered some two or three hours later by passers-by. HOW IT IS SUPPOSED TO HAVE OC-to go to Baltimore to accept a position which had offered liself there. On Monday evening he went out as he often did with some friends, and later, with two of them, he went to the Bijou Theatre. After the play the three boys went to the Union Depot, and rode up on the north-bound train, which happened to be some hours late. This, it seems, was about 10:30 o'clock. At Main and Belvidere Streets, two of the boys, according to their own statements, got off, leaving young Craddock, of whom they saw and heard nothing further until yesterday morning they learned of his death.

The statement of policemen who walked the beat, and of others, would discredit the statement that the young man met death on this night train, though this opinion is held by many, including some of the family. The more plausible supposition is that he got off at Eiba and went back to Monroe Park or elsewhere and walied until No. 32, which ran by about 4 A. M., came along. The engineer of this train or the fireman, it is supposed, was the friend he expected to take him to Washington or Baltimore. This train, however, makes no stop at Eiba, and it runs rather rapidly through the city. The young man attempted to climb aboard and in doing so he fell.

HORRIBLY MANGLEY.

When the remains were discovered about 7 o'clock in the morning they were in such condition as to baffle altempts at identification. Portions of the body were strown along the track for a distance of soveral squares. The father of the young fellow, who had been worrying about his absence from home the night before, and who suspected something when he heard of the accident mear his house, went to see, and found, to his grief and horror, that it was undoubtedly his own son who had been killed. Later in the day identification was made more positive by the discovery on the remains of two photographs—one of a young man and the tree of whinesses. Coroner Taylor, who viewed the remains, and whose theory of the death is that it was undoubtedly his own son who had been killed. Later in the

WOMAN FOUGHT AMBULANCE DOCTOR

Dr. Sycle, While Treating Woman Who Had Taken Laudanum, Was Attacked.

Dr. Sycle, one of the surgeons of the City Hospital, had a peculiar experience yesterday evening shortly after 6 o'clock. When he returned from the Virginia Hospital, where he had taken Mrs. India Lane, who had been struck by a street car, he found a call to attend a woman on West Broad Street, who had taken laudanum. The woman was sadly under the influence of the drug, and after freeing her stomach of it he had to reduce the stupor she was already in by walking her and slapping her, and using similar heroic means of keeping her awake. Another woman in the house saw the surgeon slapping the sick woman, and not being familiar with this method of treatment, arrived at the conclusion that blows fell fast, and excitement ran high

YANKEE YOUTH SINGS OF VIRGINIA

Young Newspaper Man of Pennsylvania Infatuated With the Old State.

In his admirable address at Hollywood on Memorial Day, General Robert White quoted a very sweet little poem, entilled "In Virginia," written by a youth, who is a native of Pennsylvania, and at present a reporter on one of the papers of Wheeling, where General White lives. It appealed so strongly to hundreds in the audience that a number of requests have come for it to be printed. Its simple and musical lines run thus:

"The roses nowhere bloom so white
As in Virginia;
The sunshine nowhere shines so bright
As in Virginia;
The birds sing nowhere quite so sweet,
And nowhere hearts so lightly beat,
For heaven and earth both seem to meet
Down in Virginia.

"The days are never quite so long
As in Virginia;
Nor quite so filled with happy song,
As in Virginia;
And when my time has come to die,
Just take me back and let me lie,
Close where the James goes rolling by,
Down in Virginia.

There is nowhere a land so fair
As Old Virginia,
so full of sons, so free of care,
As Old Virginia,
And I believe that Happy Land
The Lord's prepared for mortal man
Is built exactly on the plan
Of Old Virginia.

The youth has never been upon Virginia soil, but has read so much about the dear old State that he is infatuated with it.
